Poetry.

From First to Last.

In the morning all my s'ty was rosy;
Dewy was the grass beneath my feet;
Little flower-buds awoke and courtesied
In the warm wind blowing sweet and fleet,
I love the beauty of my morning-time,
And lightly sang, "The world is in its prime"

In the twilight all my stars were shining;
Peaceful echoes came from field and fold;
A heavenly calm upon my ways descended;
Life seemed more joy than all my heart could hold.
I loved the beauty of my evening-time,
And thanked my God His world was in its prime.

—Nelly M. Hutchinson in Harper's Weekly

Selected Story.

Patty's Plot.

"Loves me better than the whole world does he?" said patty Peronel, shaking her brown tendrilly rings of hair over a faded rose-bud and a knot of crumpled ribbon. "Oh, I dare say; but you see," gravely addressing space, "I've heard that sort of thing before. Love must be an awful epidemic now a-days. And all the words a lottery; and I, for one, don't want to draw a blank. O dear, dear! how I wish I could really see into a man's heart! How I wish I had any means of ascertaining whether Ralph Penrhyn really cares for me, or whether he has heard of Uncle Hutchinson's ten thousand dollars. O dear me! and Patty sighed a sigh deep enough to stir all the red cinnamon roses that were nodding their turbaned crests at the casement.

And then she jumped up, and went about her business.

Which chanced to be girl hunting just then. For Mrs. Maurice Peronel, Patty's cousin, was chronicled in the suds, so to speak, on the domestic service question, and our Patty knew the inside of every Intelligence office in town.

"Its a cook this time, is it, Bessie?" said she.

"A cook," said Bessie. "O, Patty, Patty, don't get married and go to housekeeping. It takes all the romance out of one."

"I don't know but what you are right." Patty assented reflectively And awa she went to the Intelligence office.

It was crowded, on this hot July day, with the miscellaneous assemblage of forlorn femity who are always seeking situations, and like the lover in the "Mistletoe Bough," find them not." Patty looked round dubiously. She was something of a physiognomist, and she did not exactly like the looks of the raw material wherewith she was surrounded.

"I had better bide my time a little," she thought, and down she nestled into the corner of a prodigious sofa, to wait with what patience she might.

"As she seated herself, the shrill piping voice of an old lady beyond made silence vocal.

"You won't do for me," she said. "No followers—that's my rule. My kitchen an't a place for all the loafin' fellers in town to smoke in. Ask everybody in Darlingville, if you wan,t to know what kind of a housekeeper Rachel Penrhyn is. Everybody in Darlingville knows me. No followers, no ribbons, and no hoopskirts."

"I guess then, ma'am, you won't do for me," said the Milesian damsel, with an indignant toss of her jockey-hatted head; "I don't go nowheres I can't have my young man come and see me of a Saturday night."

Patty Peronel listened with mischievously sparkling eyes and cherry cheeks. This, then, was the eccentric Aunt Rachel, of whom Ralph had often told her—the grim old spinster who "kept house" all by herself, in the quaint village of Darlingville, where the elms lined the streets like green-kirtled sentinels, and everybody went to bed at half-past nine o'clock.

Very suddenly resolves will sometimes rush through our brains, lightening express fashion, in a short space of time, and almost before the shrill tones of Miss Rachel's falsetto voice had ceased to vibrate on the air, Patty Peronel stood dipping odd little courtesies before her.

"If you plense, ma'am, would I suit?"

Miss Rachel glared through her moon shaped spectacle glasses at the trim figure robed in sober gray.

"You child!" quoth she. "Why, you're such a chit of a thing!"

"I am nineteen, ma'am!"

"What can you do?"

"A little of everything, ma'am." Patty answered demurely.

"What's your name?"

"Martha ma'am, please."

Appareutly the cross-examination that followed was satisfactory to Miss Rachel Penrhyn, for she finally told Patty she might "come and try" at seven dollars a month.

"I may go home for my clothes, ma'am?" said Patty with dropping eyelids and hands folded.

"Yes; but be sure you meet me at the railroad station at four precisely."

Patty promised, and ran home to Mrs. Peronel.

"Where's my girl?" demanded the matron.

"I haven't got any. I'm a girl myself, Bessie—at seven dollars a month, and—followers!"

"What under the sun do you mean?" And Patty explained.

"Don't scold, Bessie—now don't that's a darling. I'm Caliph Aaroun Alraschid in disguise, that's all. It will be such fun! Where's my gingham dress, and the little linen colars' and the big bib aprons? For my bubble would burst altogether if I couldn't meet Aunt Rachel at the station at four o'clock precisely."

What a change it was, from the swarming city streets, radiating scintillations of heat from every curb stone, to the old Penrhyn house, where the century old elms formed a green canopy of shade, and the clove-pinks and old fashioned bluebells blossomed along the borders. And "Martha," the new maid, settled into the grooves at once, as if she had lived all her life under Aunt Rachel's roof-tree.

"I believe I am going to like this," said Aunt Rachel. "But then, of course, a new broom sweeps clean; and I'm 'most afraid to believe in any one, since Keturah Smith experienced religion and then run away with my silver sugar basin!"

"This is Mr. Ralph's room, is it?" said Martha, with Her hands in her ruffled pockets, as she stood regarding the appartment that had just been opened to be dusted and aired.

"Yes this is my nephew's room," said the old lady. "He comes out once in a while, and I always keep it ready for him. I've no family of my own, you see, and Ralph seems very near to me."

"Dear me!" said Martha, "what a lot of photographs over the mantle!"

Miss Rachel nodded.

"That middle one—it looks a little bit like you, Martha, I declare—"

"Does it?" lisped Martha innocently, as she looked into her own smiling, saucy eyes, under a fringe of crepe hair.

"It's my nephew's sweetheart," went on the garrulous old lady—"the gal he loves the best in all the world."

"Are they engaged?" Martha asked, the tell-tale roses dying her cheek as she gently spoke.

"Well no, not exactly. I guess she's rather pretty, but she's got nothing of her own, you see; and there's Almyra Playfair—the one on the left-hand edge of the chimney—"

"The one with the twisted nose?" roguishly asked Martha.

"Her nose may be a little to one side," severely remonstrated Miss Rachel; "but handsome is that handsome does, and Almira has thirty thousand dollars in the bank."

"My!" cried Martha, opening her eyes wide. "Thirty thousand dollars, ma'am! I should think Mr. Ralph would marry her at once."

"So he ought," said Miss Rachel, rubbing her spectacle glasses vehemently. "She'd have him in a minute—so all the neighbors say. But he's just posessed in love with that little Peronel girl. He'd rather work for a crust a day, with her to share it, he says, than to marry Elmira Playfair with all her money."

"That is noble of him," cried Martha with sparkling eyes. "I respect him for it. I—I mean I should respect him for it if—"

"Well, I don't see what it is to you one way or the other," tartly broke in Miss Rachel. "Just give the room a good dusting, that's all I ask of you, for as like as not Ralph will be here to-night.

"To-night," cried Martha, aghast.

"Yes, to-night. Why shouldn't he?"

That was just what the little serving damsel could not answer.

"I must go away this very evening," she thought to herself as she polished away at the claw-footed old mahogany table. "Because if he should come and find me here—Oh, good gracious."

She dropped her duster in dismay, for there stood Ralph Penryh before her, with all his six feet of altitude, his brown eyes twinkling mischeviously beneath their long lashes.

"Patty," he cried, "is this the story of Cinderella and the Little Glass Slipper?"

"No" she answered, coloring like a whole garden of roses. "It's the story of a naughty little girl who could not be satisfied without finding out whether—"

"Whether Ralph Penrhyn really loved her or not," he finished the hesitating sentence. "Well, what do you think?"

The question was what Aunt Rachel thought some ten minutes later, when she came in, and found her nephew and Martha the housemaid whispering behind the muslin curtains. I know what I should have thought—that a wedding was very imminent.

So it was; and Aunt Rachel consoled herself that after all, ten thousand dollars was a very snug little fortune.

Miscellaneous.

Narrow and Wide R. R. Gauge Compared.

Silas Seymour, Esq., Civil Engineer, in his report and arguments against a narrow gauge for the Southern Pacific Railroad, on page 11, says: "With track in perfect adjustment and cars of proportionate width and heighth, I see no reason why an engine of sufficient power will not haul a train with as great speed and safety upon a narrow as upon a wide gauge." Ample experience proves this statement of Mr. Seymour's correct, as on all the narrow gauge passenger roads built and tested a speed of 35 miles per hour or more has been attained. On the Festineog road, two feet gauge a speed of 30 miles per hour has been attained with a train of 1,323 feet long and weighing 112 tons. We will now consider cars and capacity for business.

R. F. Fairlie in his recent work. "The Battle of Gauges," says: "Experience has shown that on the wider gauges it is impossible to utilize to the full extent the bread base that the wheels offer. This is because the cars would be large—out of all proportion to their requirements and inordinately heavy."

Tests have shown that the following relative proportion of width of car to gauge can be used with as much safety as present width: For a two feet gauge, six feet three inches; for a three feet gauge, nine feet; for a four feet eight-and-a-half inch gauge, eleven-and-a-half feet; and for a six feet gauge, thirteen feet. But experience has shown that eight-and-a-half or nine feet is wide enough for freight cars for all ordinary business in this country, and few are made wider than that. Here will be at once perceived one feet eight-and-a-half inch wheel base not needed. It surely cost something to construct it, and I fear it is a heavy tax to keep it. The size of freight cars would seem to indicate that companies are unconsciously drifting into narrow gauge practice.

The ordinary box freight car on the New Haven road weighs nine tons, and has a carrying capacity of ten tons.

A three feet gauge box freight car weighs four tons, and carries a load of nine tons, and the narrow gauge car will be as wide as the freight car on the New Haven road. The question may be asked: "What is the cause of this great difference between weight and capacity of cars for the two gauges?"

I note that the wheels of the wide gauge eight wheel car are thirty inches in diameter, and weigh, with the axles, 5,400 pounds, while the wheels for the narrow gauge car are twenty-four inches in diameter, and weigh, with the axles, 2,400 pounds. The greatest strain on wheels and axles is the tortional, and this strain diminishes as the gauge is narrrowed. Again, the difference in length of rails in the narrow gauge is so little on ordinary curves that it is practicable to make the wheels conical enough to overcome it without slipping or impingement of flange against the rail. About the same proportional weighs have been carried out in the entire construction of the cars. It will readily be seen that much greater strength is required in the bread gauge cars to withstand the shocks incident to use in a train composed of like heavy cars than in a train composed of cars of less than one half of the weight, as is the case with the narrow gauge. If you place a light car in a train of heavy cars, and attempt to use it there, it would soon be crushed, but it could be used with ordinary safety for years in a train of light cars. It is not the loads that break the cars, but the shocks incident from a high rate of speed. The heavy wide gauge cars must be made heavier and stronger to withstand these shocks.

Begin with narrower and consequently lighter wheel base, and you can carry the same relative proportions through the construction of the car.

The average freight train on the New Haven road weighs 150 tons, eleven cars and one engine. The capacity of the train is 110 tons, and the average load only 30 tons, which, added to the weight of the train, makes 180 tons gross weight of train. A narrow, three feet gauge train for the same business and capacity would consist of twelve cars and one engine, making a weight of train 67 tons, exclusive of freight and 97 tons gross weight of train for three feet gauge, against 180 tons for wide gauge. If a railroad company can make eight per cent. dividends on profits of hauling 180 tons a given distance for a given price, what dividends can they make for hauling 67 tons the same distance for the same price?

The average passenger train on the New Haven road weighs 115 tons, and consists of engine, one baggage car and four passenger cars. The average load is 105 passengers, making total weight of train and load 112 tons. A narrow gauge train of cars of same capacity and room for passengers and baggage, would weigh, with the engine, 57 tons. Add to this 7 tons of passengers, and we have a gross weight of train of 64 tons, against 112 tons on wide gauge.

The difference in expenses between moving light and heavy trains in ordinary railroad practice is very difficult to determine. It is argued by some that it costs more to move the same weight of train on wheels twenty-four inches in diameter than on wheels thirty inches in diameter, but I have results of experience before me that determine that very closely. At a speed of three miles per hour, it takes four per cent. more power to move the load on the smaller wheels, and at a speed of twenty miles per hour it takes only three quarters per cent. more power. In ordinary railroad practice this would not be perceptible.

That the light train of the narrow gauge road can be moved much cheaper than the heavy train of the broad gauge is very evident. Engineers who have given close attention to this matter estimate this difference at forty per cent. I think I am safe in assuming that the entire business of a railroad in this section of country can be done thirty per cent. cheper on a three feet than on a four feet eight-and-half inch gauge, and trains moved forty per cent. cheaper. I think the estimated cost of the Ridgefield road from here to Danbury is $1,000,000.

What would be the result if they should adopt the narrow gauge. 1st. The narrow gauge would cost forty per cent. less, which would be a saving of $400,000 to start with. On completion of the road they would probably run six passenger trains and two freight trains over the road each day, which would make a total distance of 52,824 miles run by trains in one year. At ninety cents per mile (the cost of running a train it would cost $47,541.60.

The same distance run by a narrow gauge train at fifty-four cents per mile would cost $28,629 96 a saving of $19,-016 64 in one year on running expenses. To this should be added the interest on $400,000 saved in cost of construction, and we have a saving the first year of $57,000. I leave it to stockholders and those interested in road to tell what the saving would amount to in ten years.—Port Chester (N. Y.,) Journal.

Don't call a Man a Liar.

Never tell a man he is a liar unless you are certain that you can lick him, for as a general rule, when you say that it means fight.

I have arrived at this conclusion through sad experience. I know that it is not safe to give the lie to a muscular Christian.

I did it once. I am sorry for it now, as I never grieved for anything else in the whole course of my life.

We were standing on the sidewalk, in front of the club, when I made the statement. We were talking politics, and men who talk politics get hot over it, are, to put it mildly lunatics, or else want an office, or have some friend who wants an office.

This man made an assertion touching the fair fame of my candidate. It is probably that if it had been as true as it was false, I should have thken the same course, because, you understand, a man who talks politics has no sense, anyhow. I think I said this before, but it is all the same. I want to make it strong, and get you to understand how I got my ornamental eye.

I mildly suggested that a man who would make such a statement as that, was lost to all sense

THE RAILROAD MEETING IN CAMDEN COUNTY.

A Railroad meeting was held in the Court House at Camden on Monday. Hon. J. W. ALBERTSON presided and Col. LUKE acted as Secretary. In opening the meeting Judge ALBERTSON made an excellent speech, fully meeting the objections raised against railroad enterprizes and demonstrating, by clear and forcible illustrations, their uses and benefits. At the conclusion of his address Dr. W. A. GREENLEAF, Secretary of the "Atlantic Coast Railway Company" was called. On responding he disclaimed being a speech maker, but all agreed that his effort was entirely satisfactory. It was lucid, sensible and practical. Being an officer of the Company, he spoke with authority. In giving a history of the enterprize he stated that it had required over two years to procure the needed charters through the States from New York to Georgia and to complete the organization; that the present purpose was to connect Norfolk and Charleston: that the road would be located through this portion of the State if the people desired it; that they must manifest that desire in a substantial way by subscription to its stock in lands, county bonds and individual subscriptions; that they would run no risk in subscribing as no money was asked until work was begun and that the amounts subscribed by each county would be expended on the work of the road in each county. He proved from unanswerable statistics that the road would pass through a very rich and productive country, one, when once developed as a railroad would develope it, unparralleled on the continent in its resources, and that it would not only vastly benefit the people but would pay the Company.

The next speaker was Col. JOHN L. MAPES, Chief Engineer of the Company, who has had his corps at work the past two weeks on the trial line from Elizabeth City to Norfolk. He said that the maps are so inaccurate that it was necessary to first make this line in order to get the exact relative position of the different points After these are accurately obtained he could begin a survey locating the route. The latter may vary as much as a mile or more from the trial line.

Maj. H. A. GILLIAM, of Edenton was then called and made a speech full of facts, statistics and arguments. He was followed by W. H. SMITH, Esq., and Col. W. F. MARTIN, of Elizabeth City. Short speeches were likewise made by Edwin FERRELL, Esq. and Col. LUKE, after which the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the County Commissioners of the County of Camden be instructed to subscribe at their next meeting for Four Hundred Shares of the "Atlantic Coast Railway Company," to be paid for in bonds of the County of Camden, payable at Twenty years with coupons bearing six per cent interest, and that they have the proposition submitted to a vote of the people of the county at an election to be held at the regular polling precincts at such time as they shall order, and that they guard the subscription and the delivering of the bonds with such guarantees as they deem sufficient.

THE RAW MATERIAL OF LABOR.

There are two essential elements which enter into labor, intelligence and physical strength. Let either of these conditions be lacking and labor of any value is impossible. Let us consider them in their order.

I. Intelligence is indispensable to successful labor. We talk of skilled labor, but all labor that is worth anything is skilled, that is, educated. There must be a clear conception in the mind of what is required to be done. This conception comes only by study and training. Men do not naturally have a clear conception of how to build ships, or houses, or machinery, or furniture, or how to cultivate cotton, sugar, rice the grains and fruits. To labor successfully in any of these branches of industry requires a foundation of clear ideas. The laborer must know what it is to be done, and how to do it.

This is easily illustrated by the difference between savage and civilized life. That difference is chiefly due to the difference in the degree of intelligence between savage and civilized laborers. The one is content to dwell in a wilderness, to live in rude wigwams; his frail birch bark canoe is his only ship; his mechanical implements and weapons are of the simplest and crudest kind; his clothing consists of the skins of wild beasts.

In all these things the savage works up to his highest ideal. These are his highest conceptions. He is an uneducated laborer, and the result is an utter failure to bring the forces and materials provided by nature into the service of man.

But intelligent labor implies even more than that a man have a well defined conception of what is to be produced or made. He must also understand the laws of mechanics and agriculture. If he is to build a house he must know more or less perfectly the laws of architecture. To build an engine he must understand many of the principles of mechanics, the strength and properties of iron and other material, as well as the laws which govern steam as a motive power. To succeed in making guns, a man must understand the law projectiles, and so on through all the round of mechanical industry.

The same principles apply to agriculture and horticulture. To succeed, men must understand the laws of conditions of growth, the nature of the plants to be raised and the manner in which they are affected by climate, soil etc. The conclusion naturally follows: all this requires education. Without intelligence in all these departments of labor, desirable results cannot be obtained. The more intelligent the laborer the better the work, while perfect workmanship is attained only by those who are masters of the principles of their art, as well as skilled performers.

II. One of the chief elements of labor is physical strength. To this condition. It is generally paid to this condition. It is a natural law, which needs only to be stated to be admitted, that, other things being equal, the amount of labor a person can perform is in proportion to his strength. A strong, healthy man will perform more manual labor than a frail, sickly man. Health and strength therefore should be sought directly, not only for the comfort and happiness they bring, but also for their material results. A community, or a class of strong, healthy and well preserved laborers, ought to, and will accomplish greater results than a feeble community.

Those, therefore, who would benefit the working elements in society—and this practically includes all classes—may do so by teaching people how they may attain to the highest state of health and vigor. Men in their physical natures are animals. They attain their fullest physical strength and development like other animals, only by good care and nourishing food. It is too much the custom to think a working man can live on scanty, coarse fare, and dispense with the comforts of life. This is a fundamental error. Good food, a comfortable home, and cleanliness are primary conditions of health and strength. Thus do we see that intelligence and physical strength are the raw material of labor.

NARROW GAUGE RAIL ROADS.

On our first page this week we publish an article on narrow gauge railroads. We call the attention of our readers to it, for the subject is now becoming one of special interest and importance to our people in this part of the South. The cheaper a road that will meet all our requirements can be built the better for us. Indeed economy in the construction is of the utmost importance. It is not simply a question of whether the line shall prove remunerative to the parties interested, but in very many instances whether the line shall be constructed at all, and consequently whether the section through which it is proposed to build a line shall or shall not have the benefit of such communication, and its progress in the way of development be correspondingly accelerated or retarded.

The question of narrow gauge railroads has long claimed the attention of railroad men. The feeling is growing rapidly in favor of the adoption of a narrow gauge, say of three feet or thereabouts in preference to the broad gauge, say of five feet and upwards. This feeling is not confined to this country, but in Europe likewise, the narrow gauge is gaining in favor. Says a recent writer on this subject:

"In England, where the construction of additional railroads is not a matter so urgently demanded as in this country; where the broad and narrow gauge have existed, the broad, as in the case of the Great Western Railway, has been taken up and replaced by the narrow. The broad gauge, while providing greater steadiness and rendering a higher rate of speed possible consistently with safety, rendering necessary the construction of much larger and heavier rolling stock; the wear and tear of which on itself and on the road is prodigious, and the cost of replacement correspondingly great. Nor is this all. The engineers of to-day are more economical and practical than some of their early predecessors. To pierce or vault over every impediment and carry over your road, thus made countless tons of machinery, at fabulous cost, is not the great end of operations. With such immense rolling stock the results of a mishap, a deviation from the track or a coming in contact produce results on the elemental scale of the earthquake and volcano rather than savoring of the upsetting of some half dozen vehicles. Economy and lightness are acquiring more and more favor, and it is contended that the narrow gauge road built at half the cost of broad will be adequate for all the business for when a broad road would furnish the facilities. One quite startling fact is, that the double-track, narrow-gauge will not cost as much as the broad-gauge single-track. There is, of course, an immese advantage on the part of the double-track over the single. The narrow gauge will furnish cheaper transportation and will accomplish the end of developing the resources of a country much more rapidly than high rates. It would be impossible, within the limits of a brief article, to present anything like an exhaustive comparison of the two systems; the principal advantages of the narrow gauge over the broad may, however, be summed up. Certain narrow gauge roads in operation have been declared fully equal in capacity to broad gauge roads, while all the speed requisite is attained on them.

That the narrow gauge is the system for the South we are abundantly convinced. In our next we will endeavor to give the the reason why.

A cotton manufactory at Augusta, Ga., having become well established, is now extremely profitable, the dividend last year having been 56 per cent. All the operatives are Southern people, who do their work well and get good wages, and the only Northern man is the superintendent. There are more manufacturies equally successful.—Tribune.

The same would be the result of a Factory put in operation here. Let us have the railroad and the Factories will soon follow. All our people are interested in both.

ENCOURAGE MANUFACTORIES.

The prospects for more extensive manufacturing establishments in and about our city are increasing. They should be encouraged to the fullest extent. Situated as we are, with fine facilities for commerce, they will add largely to our prosperity and growth. There are no enterprizes so calculated to build up a town or city as manufactories. Go to New England and look at her interior towns. What is the secret of their success and prosperity? What beautified and made rich their once barren wastes, or polished and adorned the former rugged mountain side? Simply their manufactories.

A people negligent to the interest of the branch of enterprize can be no other than a people blind to their own interests. The grocer and the butcher, who may never have seen the inside of a factory, feel the electrical effect as surely and forcibly as he who guides and owns the enterprize. All branches of business feel the effect. The money which it brings into the community is in reality an importation, and is brought to a center from every quarter of the globe. There is no wealth in an exchange of the same commodity in the same community. It is the importation that brings wealth, and much more forcibly is this felt when the money or circulating medium is imported into a community through the channel of its manufactories. It makes everything active. It is the great lever of trade. Every enterprize receives an impetus by it—is sustained by it.

Hence we insist that no citizen, who has the welfare of the community at heart, can feel indifferent to the success of any or all of the manufactoring enterprizes already started and about to be put in operation. Every person who has business; owns property or resides in a community, should feel an interest to sustain and encourage manufactories to done among them, assured that the benefit must be mutual to all parties. Nor are manufactories degrading to a people. On the contrary they add to the moral character and elevate mankind. The hours which in the absence of useful employment, might be spent in dissipation and riot, are occupied in a way more lucrative and beneficial. There is no society more degrading than that which has too much leisure.

A very full market yesterday, and the finest display of fruits and vegetables we have seen. Irish Potatoes (new crop) made their appearance at the market yesterday. They were brought from Elizabeth City, N. C., and sold at $1 a peck.—Norfolk Journal.

In early fruits and vegetables we are bound to be ahead. Give us a Railroad and this Albemarle country will become the garden spot, supplying the markets with their early supplies.

Nearly half of all the Indians in the whole country are on the Pacific slope. This half includes the wildest and most turbulent of the tribes. The Apaches are more difficult to manage than the Sioux have ever been. If the power of a single Modoc for mischief is multiplied by the 173,000 Indians on this coast, the Federal Government would have its hands full in caring for its "wards" for some years to come.

Why is it that land in Pennsylvania and New York, not half as good as that in Pasquotank, Camden and Perquimans counties, is bringing in the market from one to two hundred dollars an acre? It is because of their railroads. It is these that make the no better lands than ours in the new States of Illinois and Iowa sell at from fifty to seventy five dollars an acre.

The Fort Wayne (Ind.) Sentinel, in speaking of somebody or other in connection with a railroad accident, very prettily observes: "He was fast asleep in the arms of Morpheus and Somnus, and was awakened by the glorious light that shone from the judgment seat in the world beyond the river."—Ex.

Yes, but he does not say whether the poor fellow was hurt or not.

There is a nice boy at Sparta, Wis. He amused his leisure hours by boring a hole through the dam just to see the water spirt. In fifteen hours after he started the leak the dam had given way, carrying off a valuable mill.—Ex.

Suppose this boy had lived in ancient Sparta, what a flogging he would have got!

The President has issued a proclamation commanding the turbulent and disorderly elements of Louisiana to disburse and retire peacably to their respective abodes within Twenty days and submit to the laws and constituted authorities of the State, recogeizing KELLOGG as Governor.

One of the results of railroads are to cause cities, towns and villages to spring up as if by magic. Following along their lines comes population, manufactories and development. That we need them all agree but without railroads they never come. Let us have the railroad.

The financial crisis in Vienna has resulted in the failure of over one hundred firms, causing consternation in all branches of business. The son of a wealthy banker committed suicide on account of his losses, and the citizens generally are greatly depressed

England is keeping a bright lookout upon the movements of Russia. The gigantic Empire of the North is gradually spreading itself around India, and England is naturally jealous of every step that Russia takes toward the Empire of the East.

A gentleman in this District raised and sold this spring, off six acres of ground, six hundred dollars worth of peas. The same is now in Cotton, an excellent stand. Give us a rail road and a thousand men in the district can do the same thing.

Nixon, who was hung in this city last week, made his will the day before his execution, beginning it in the usual way: "Being impressed with the uncertainty of life."—New York Paper.

We would think it quite probable that he was deeply impressed with it.

Col. THOS. J. CORPREW, a prominent citizen of Norfolk, died on Saturday evening last. His death is much regretted, as he was held in high esteem by all classes.

They have arrested Mr. Applegate out in Nebraska merely for having three wives, stealing a horse, forging a note and setting fire to a barn!—Ex.

That isn't the way to encourage immigration—of rogues and rascals to Nebraska.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION—THE OLD BOARD VS. THE NEW—THE COURT HOUSE BURNED—THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS. ETC.

Plymouth, N. C., May 26, 1873.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

I see it has been publicly noticed that the municipal election at this place on Monday the 1st inst., was "a Conservative victory." It is true three out of the five elected were Conservatives. The two Republicans were colored, and run on both tickets. It was not made a test political question by any means, or the result would have been different. The intelligent portion of the Republican party gave the election the go-by being satisfied with the ticket elect, composed as it was of our most respectable citizens. It is also true that two of the unsuccessful candidates were poll-keepers, but the election was conducted quietly and fairly, and though defeated they modestly acquiesced in the result, and we have heard of no fair minded person complaining of their conduct or management.

The arbitrary management of the commissioners last year, and the utter disregard to financial economy, morality, and proper sanitary regulations, so disgusted everybody that nearly all chimed in for a change, and gave their influence in favor of the property owner and taxpayer, without regard to political demagogueism. Thus the result.

The new board have entered upon their duties with a vim, excommunicating only the lambs from enjoying the luxuries of spring grass, within the corporate limits. The growlers are still kept incarcerated, and are busy generating sulphureted hydrogen etc., not as congenial to health as pure oxygen; nor is it as agreeable to the sense of smell, as the aroma of a thousand flowers.

We regret to notice the fact of the burning of the Court House, and all the valuable portion of the county clerks books, papers, &c. The act of burglars and incendiaries.

The freshet in the Roanoke has been higher than for ten years, the river is now falling, and the fishermen are still unable to operate owing to the high water, and injury to walks. The weather is quite cool, and rain continues; old Sol hid his head behind the misty clouds a week or more ago, and up to now has refused to show his face and diffuse his rays of light and heat, generally so agreeable. The farmers are rather low spirited, owing to the backward season; busy though when the season permits, replanting cotton and corn, weeding out, &c.

Our fisheries have done a fair business taking all things in consideration; at least we have all been well stuffed with the finnie tribe, and are now luxuriating on early vegetables, fruits, mint juleps, etc., and tar heel like, we don't care a continental which way the wind blows.

Our worthy townsman Mr. Thos. S. Armistead, who has been doing an extensive and profitable fishing business this season on the Roanoke, leaves for his home in Charlotte, on Friday next, with his amiable and accomplished lady; may health, prosperity and happiness be their companions through life.

Rail Road Meeting in Perquimans.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

In pursuance of a call previously made a meeting was held in Hertford Perquimans county, on May 24th, 1873, to consider the question of extending aid to the "Atlantic Coast Rail Road Line." J. W. Albertson was called to the chair, and H. W. Barber was appointed secretary. The meeting was respectable in numbers and composed of respectable, intelligent and representative men.

The chairman explained the purpose of the meating in a speech of some length, remarking the unsatisfactory condition of the present means of transportation; the evils and losses resulting therefrom, and the great benefits to arise from a cheaper and quicker means of reaching market.

Maj. H. A. Gilliam then covered the same ground in a speech full of practical good sense, and replete with happy illustrations and interesting statistics.

The spirit exhibited was fully in accord with the purposes and objects of the meeting and there was a full response to the aid demanded by the enterprize.

We think there is no doubt that Perquimans will do all that is required of her.

The following constitute the committees for raising the subscription for stock in the several Townships to wit:

The Modoc War.

WASHINGTON, May 24th,—The following despatch was received here last evening, and in the absence of Gen, Sherman, was communicated to the Secretary of War:

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.

To Gen. Sherman, Washington, D. C.:

Col. Davis reports that about half the Modocs, being whipped and hard pressed by Hasbrouck, have surrendered unconditionally. Davis says he will push the pursuit of Jack and his party and hopes to end the war.

(Signed). J. M. SCHOFIELD, Major-General.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—Reports from Fairchild's state that Captain Jack is north of the Pitt river country with twenty-five warriors, who say that they will die with their rifles in their hands. Gen. Davis has ordered troops to go in pursuit of the savages. Gen. Gillem has been ordered to proceed to the headquarters of his regiment at Benicia, Col. Wheaton has been reinstated. It is thought that half a dozen Modocs were lately near camp waiting to surrender.

A terrible conflagration occured in Hong Kong, China, on the 22d of March. Forty-four acres of houses were destroyed and 5,000 persons rendered homeless.

It was not until 3 o'clock in the morning that matters were explained and a reconciliation effected.

The Norfolk Virginian says: Millions of feet of log timber are being collected in North Carolina, shipped on the Chowan river, through the Dismal Swamp to this city, where it is wrought into merchantable timber at Armstrong's and other mills. The swamps on the Blackwater are well-timbered and thousands of poles for telegraph and other uses are being got daily. A great many men are engaged in the lumber business —which now seems to be more profitable than any other.

A Rensselaer young man has come to grief. Unfortunately, while visiting one day last week the young lady who had won his young heart's affection, and settling the preliminaries of their expected marriage, he rashly remarked that the union would be perfectly advantageous, to her, because he moved in much better society than she. And then upsprang that insulted female. Seizing a huge carving-knife from the table, she went for that young man, and the youth went for the door. He had her arrested for assault, and the engagement has been broken off.

We fear that Mr. P. M. Butterfield, Post Alleghany, Penn., must be a gentleman of a cynical and acidulous turn of mind. He has written to the Postmaster of Jefferson City that "he has heard that there is a female incarcerated there for life unless she marries, which will liberate her." He continues: "Is this so? If it is, I would be glad to give a clear $10,000 to get a wife that no man would envy me. Write and let me know immediately." Men of Mr. Butterfield's peculiar turn of mind have been known to marry exceedingly ugly women, but to wed a convict out of prison for such reason would be a doubtful experiment.

The Colored Cadet from Virginia, says the Norfolk Journal, "is named John W. Williams. He was born a slave in Hampton, Va., and is now about seventeen years old. He is a very bright mulatto; is stout and well formed; is possessed of considerable fluency of speech, and has easy and confident manners. He is now a pupil of Hampton Normal School, and the correctness and promptness of his answers show that he has been well taught. He has only been full use of his advantages. We learn that he passed an almost perfect examination, so far excelling his white competitors that the board did not hesitate a moment in deciding in his favor.

A terrible explosion occured in Pictou County, Nova Scotia, on the 13th instant. A coal mine, known as the Drummond Colliery, was fired while the full complement of men were in the galleries, and something like sixty men have lost their lives, for the fire is still burning, and the few who made their escape did so with the greatest difficulty. The fire is supposed to have been started by an improperly arranged blasting charge. We notice, however, that recent experiments have demonstrated the fact that "firedamp" driven at a considerable velocity may be forced through the wire gauze which surrounds an ordinary safety-lamp. This may account for some of the mining disasters which have hitherto been charged to other causes.

The result of our recent Municipal election has given great satisfaction to our friends all over the State. A prominent and active Republican from Western Carolina writes saying:

"Never in my life have I been more pleased than at the result of your election. You and the other of your friends who stood so gallantly by the regular ticket deserve the praise of the party all over the State."

A leading Republican from Raleigh writes:

"I am so much pleased at the result of your municipal election that I must write you a letter of congratulation. I felt great solicitude as to the result, in which I thought the future general party success was concerned. A successful party like ours though it has nothing to fear from the open and direct attacks of its routed and unhomogenious enemy, must be constantly on the alert to prevent that enemy from initiating a disintegration in its own ranks. * * * Your management of the canvas was admirable, and it is especially to be commended that you have so firmly and boldly permitted the leading bolter to occupy the berth he has sought for himself."

Another influential Republican from the central portion of the State writes:

"The result of the election is a good omen for the State. It is a terrible rebuke to the scheming tricksters who initiated the bolting movement, and a calamitous blow to Grandy who fell so easily into their snares. It is a declaration that Northern men have established for themselves a status in Pasquotank which will make it pleasant for others who seek our genial climate and rich soil as a place of settlement."

The press likewise speaks out, expressing gratification at the defeat of the bolters nominee. Thus it will be seen that the result is by no means local in its effect.

Almost every circle is blessed with the egotist, who exercises a kind of dictatorship over it. Are you in mistake as to a matter of fact? He cannot suffer you to proceed till you are corrected. Have you a word on the end of your tongue? He at once comes to your relief. Do you talk bad grammar? He quotes rules and gives examples like a pedagogue. Does he discern that there is a link wanting in the chain of your argument? He bids you stay till he has supplied it. Do you drop a word to which he has devoted much research? He asks you whether you know its primitave signification, and straightway inflicts upon the circle a large philogical disquisition. When you relate an accident which you suppose new and affecting, your friend listens without emotion. When you have done he observes that he heard the same long ago, and adds a very material circumstance which you omitted. He is never taken by surprize and it is impossible to give him any information. And yet he never takes the lead in conversation, nor advances an original thought. It is his business to come after, and pick up the words which others let slip in a running talk, or to check their impetuosity, that he may point out to them their missteps. An, had he lived in the days of Soloman, he would have flattered the royal sage with an intimation that some of his proverbs were but plagiarisms; or, had he been a cotemporary of Soloman's father, would have felt himself bound to give the slayer of Goliah some lessons on the use of the sling, and hinted to the "sweet singer of Israel" his private opinion that the "Shephard Bard" did not perfectly understand the use of the harp.

WHEREAS; it has pleased an all wise Providence, to remove from our midst our esteemed brother Thomas M. Wise, who after a long and painful illness borne with christian fortitude, departed this life on the 20th, inst. His death creates no common loss; a fond husband, a kind parent and a warm harted friend. An earnest and faithful member of our cherished order. The void made by his death, is one sincerely to be deplored. The removal of the least of the links in the golden chain of our brotherhood is a calamity. MEDICAL BLUNDERS.—From the age when surgeons applied their salves to weapons instead of wounds to the present wide-awake age, the medical profession has often unwittingly taken side with Disease in the conflicts with the human system. Even yet, in spite of the teachings of centuries of experience, some physicians believe in depleting their patients, already seriously exhausted by sickness, with powerful evacuants, emetics, salivants, cantharidal plasters, or the lancet. But providentially, public intelligence is ahead of these medical fossils, who belong of right to the era of the Crusades! That powerful ally of nature in its warfare with the causes of sickness, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is appreciated by eyes of the masses to the paramount importance of increasing the vital strength of the body when menanced by disease. They understand that when the atmospheric conditions are adverse to health, it is wise to reinforce the system with a wholesome tonic and stimulant, and thus enable it to combat and repel the depressing influence of an inclement temperature. If the constitutional and animal powers were always thus recruited in the presence of danger, the mortality from consumption bronchitis, cebrolic rheumatism, &c., would be much less than it now is. The cause which produce croups, colds, quinsey, diptheria and catarrh seldom affect a strong and active vital system; and of all vitalizing preparations, Hostetter's Bitters has proved the most efficient. It is not claimed that this standard tonic is a specific for lung and throat maladies, as it is for dyspepsia, liver complaint and intermittents, but it is unhesitatingly asserted that it is the best known safeguard against all the atmospheric elements os disease.

Beware of Counterfeits!

JOB MOSES' SIR JAMES CLARKE'S FEMALE PILLS.

Are extensively COUNTERFEITED. Dishonest Druggists endeavor to sell the counterfeits to make greater profits. The genuine have the name of Job Moses on each package. All others are worthless imitations. The GENUINE Pills are unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. They moderate all excessive and cure all suppression of the menses when caused by cold, inflammation, or disease. In all cases of Nervous and Spinal Affections, Pains in the Back and Limbs, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics and Whites, they will effect a cure when all other means have failed, and although very powerful, contain nothing hurtful to the most delicate constitution.

Circular in English German and French around each bottle gives full direction and advice.

The GENUINE Pills are sold at most drug stores, but if your druggist cannot supply the GENUINE, do not be persuaded to accept any counterfeit or bogus article but send One Dollar to the sole proprietor, Job Moses, 18 Cortlandt Street, New York, with name of nearest office and which you will call for the package, and a bottle of the GENUINE Pills securely and safely packed in plain wrappers will be sent by return express.

Death in a Damp Cellar.

The poet Cowper lived several years in a house where water was in the cellar two feet deep. During this time his poetry became more and more gloomy, he almost if not quite, believed his soul was lost, and, finally, he settled into a frightful melancholy akin to madness. Then it was he wrote that awful sentence: "Every human heart contains a snake which is prevented from escaping by the hand of God." On removing to more favorable quarters he was partly restored, but died with a clouded mind. Darkness and dampness led to melancholy and death; lightness and dryness to cheerfulness and life. The simple lesson of which is that every cellar should be thoroughly cleaned this Spring of all remains of vegetables, of old barrels, boxes, boards, and trash. Some families have a habit of using the cellar as a lumber room, and we have seen as many as 30 or 40 barrels and boxes, piled up in a cellar as though they might some time be needed. Perhaps they may be, but it is more likely that the hoops will swell and burst, the boxes become moldy and rotten and all get worse than useless. It is a good thing to be saving, but one may accumulate such stuff until it becomes a nuisance; often there is so much that it is difficult to find what is wanted, or, full as likely, it is entirely forgotten; and if in a cellar it moulds and rots away, poisoning the air and tainting the butter, milk, pork, and all other eatables, making the living rooms above decidedly unhealthful. The way to do is give the cellar a thorough cleaning, and put barrels and boxes unless absolutely needed; and to make a sure thing of it, get this old stuff get dry, then burn it up or prepare it for kindling wood, and so get rid of it. There will be enough more when wanted. If a cellar is wet, so much the greater reason why everything that can be spared should be taken out. No condition is worst than a damp cellar, for it is certain to make the whole family sick sooner or later, and not unlikely leed to consumption and early death.

A Varied Diet for Fowls.

There are no animals more omnivorous than fowls; fish, flesh, herbs, and grains being devowered by them with equal relish. We say equal, for though they commonly pounce upon meat with greater avidity than upon grain this is generally because it affords a rarity, and a flock kept for a while almost entirely on animal food will show the same greed for a few handfuls of corn.

Now, those animals accustomed to use a varied diet should not be confined to an unvarying one. There are indeed, some species which are naturally limited to one or a few kinds of food. Thus, cattle do well enough, although kept month after month on grass alone, and a tiger will thrive with nothing but lean meat upon his bill of fare. But with other animals, as with the human race, for instance, the case is different, for no person can maintain the highest efficiency when confined to one article of food. No matter how fond we may be of a particular dish, we lose relish far it when allowed nothing else for a number of consecutive meals, and the intense craving for variety indicates as its source something more than mear appetite. It gives evidence of real necessities of the system which are constantly varying with the changing circumstances of weather, employment and other conditions.

The fondness for variety shown by fowls is as significant of real need as we have found it to be in ourselves. In purveying for them, a judicious variety, selected from the three general division —fresh vegetables, grain, and animal food is at all seasons absolutely necessary for young and old, in order to make them perfectly thrifty. True, they will not starve on hard corn and water, neither will they pay a profit so kept.—The Poultry World.

Carbolic Soap for Insects.

A few days since I tried an experiment with carbolic soap in killing insects upon greenhouse plants, particularly the green fly, aphis which, as everybody knows, is a great pest, and one not readily destroyed except by fumagating with tobacco—not a very agreeable operation to perform upon parlor plants, or in a conservatory attached to a dwelling. My first experiment with soap was a decided success, operating upon 200 roses just in bloom, and it was conducted as follows: Into a pail of warm water I put a lump of soap the size of a small hen egg. The soap was cut up into small pieces, and the water stirred until it was all disolved, forming a warm suds. The water should not be too hot, but if not above 120 deg. or thereabout, it will do harm. Into this suds each rosebud was plunged, holding the pot inverted in the hand, and kept there about half a minute. After plunging, the plants were set aside for a few minutes, then dipped in the same way into clean water, shaking them about, thoroughly washing the leaves, and then returned to their former place in the house. Whether it was the soap or warm water that killed the green fly, I will not say, but there is one thing certain—they are all dead.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

Agricultral Items.

At a public sale of, short-horn stock owned by Mr. Murrry, of Racine, Wisconsin, twenty-one cows averaged over $887 per head; nine bulls average over $619 each. Two herds were sold the day previous at Waukegan, Ill., at which cows averaged $610 and bulls $364.

To Remove Ink Stains.—Ink stains may be easily removed from cotton or linen by washing the spot that is stained in salt and water. This should de done previous to its being washed with soap, for soap sets the color.

An association has been formed in the Housatonic valey, with a capatal of $100,000 for the purpose of marketing milk. Their plan is to procure a depot for strong milk and to employ men to deliver it, &c.

The Utica Herald says that milk pans should be first washed in cold water, then in warm soap-suds, to take off all particles of grease, and then scalded in very hot water, and dried well in the sun or by the fire.

Speaking of the cotton crop this season Southern papers say that the money paid for it in its raw state will not fall short of $330,000,000.

It is reported that there is more corn on the line of the Chicago, Burlington and Pacific road than can be transported by next July.

Rye flour for paste for paper hanging, is said to be much better than any other. It should be rubbed smooth in the water and just brought to a boil.

A little boy asked Dr. Burgess, the preacher, if he would have a light. "No, my child," said the Doctor, "I am one of the lights of the world." "I wish then," replied the boy, "you were hung at the end of the alley, for it is a very dark one."

This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

A valuable vacant lot in the town of E. City containing a half square, on the principal street in the town immediately opposite Court House square. Has an iron fence in front, fine shrubbery, and is near the large new Hotel just erected. Price $2,000 in easy payments.

Also another valuable vacant lot in same town of two acres, in a good neighborhood, with a new and valuable fence 9 feet high around it. Price $1,000 in easy payments.

A lot of three acres of land in the suburbs of the town, and within convenient distance of the business part of the town, with good two story dwelling, garner, stables, &c. This is a desirable purchase, and is offered for $4,000 in easy payments.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness it will compare favorably with any where: and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with all fine buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has offices, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $30 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splendid barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price 10,000, one-third cash January 1, next, balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Front-ing and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BANKRUPTCY.

THE FIFTY PER CENT CLAUSE.

As there seems to be a misunderstanding in regard to the effect of the provision of the Bankrupt Act, commonly called the 50 per cent clause, we publish the following extract from the Act:

The second clause of the thirty-third section as amended by the Act of July 27, 1868, provides "that no discharge shall be granted to a debtor whose assets shall not be equal to fifty per cent. of the claims proved against his estate, by which he shall be liable as the principal debtor, unless the assent of writing of a majority in number and value of his creditors who shall have become liable as principal debtors, or who shall have proved their claims, shall in case at or before the time of hearing of application for discharge.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled—that the provisions of the second clause of the thirty-third section of said act as amended by the act in amendment thereof, approved June 22, 1868, shall not apply to any case in which the bankrupt has compounded with his creditors subsequent to the passage of this act.

The amount of fifty per cent required to discharge the bankrupt under the above clause is to be calculated upon the amount of debts proved and allowed against the estate, and not upon the amount of debts scheduled by the bankrupt.

EXEMPTIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

The exemptions under the 14th section of the Bankrupt Act are as follows:

1. Household and Kitchen furniture to the amount not exceeding $500.00

2. Wearing apparel of Bankrupt and family.

3. Uniform, &c., if he has been a soldier in the United States Army.

4. Personal property of the value of $250 to be selected by the Bankrupt.

5. A Homestead and the dwelling and buildings used therewith, not exceeding in value the sum of $1000.00; or in lieu thereof, and at the option of the bankrupt, any parcel or tract of land not exceeding in any city, town or village where the bankrupt resides, the value the sum of $1000.00.

6. The reversionary interest in the Homestead lands.

In laying off the Exemptions in the several Districts, the Assignees are ordered to act with and abide by, any assignment of a homestead which has been made by a Sheriff under the State laws, or which has been assigned under the application of a debtor in accordance with the laws of North Carolina. Where no such assignment of homestead has been made, the assignee will proceed to set apart such homestead, and make the other exemptions according to the rules of the bankrupt Court.

The report of such exemptions when made by the assignee can be excepted to by the bankrupt or by any creditor, within twenty days after the allotment of such exempt property.

EFFECT OF THE DISCHARGE IN BANKRUPTCY UPON JUDGMENT.

It is the opinion of many of our best lawyers that the discharge in bankruptcy, declaring that the judgment debts existing against the bankrupt at the time of filing his petition, and therefore the liens existing by virtue of such judgments upon homesteads are wiped out and cannot after and be enforced. In that the practical effect of the discharge, will leave a man, whose home-stead was exempted by judgments, free from all his debts, of a permanent nature, and the owner in fee simple of a homestead.

Again many lawyers, equally prominent in the profession, are of opinion that such judgments cannot be affected by discharge. That homesteads are liable under the judgments and executions when it determines under the State law, and judgment creditor may enforce his liens and collect his debts.

To place this matter beyond doubt, the following rule has been adopted for the benefit of petitioners who are not willing to run any risk:

That the petitioning debtor may file his petition in the District Court, addressed to Hon. Geo. W. Brooks, asking that the judgment of any creditor, or creditors, now cause why the liens existing in pursuance of their judgments should not be adjusted by said court, and their precise value ascertain and fixed, and the amount of the same so ascertained, to be made the true value of such lien or liens by the decree or judgment of said District Court, in bankruptcy.

The right to adjust such liens, is exercised in pursuance of Sec. 1. of the Bankrupt Act.

FILING PETITIONS AND SCHEDULES.

The Petitions and Schedules must be in duplicate. Petitioner should sign each sheet, except to schedules. It is not necessary to file schedules of schedules that are not used. All papers in
